As a Toolpusher on a drilling rig, my primary responsibility is overseeing the day-to-day operations of the rig and ensuring the drilling process runs smoothly, safely, and efficiently. I manage a team of rig personnel, including roughnecks, drillers, and other support staff, ensuring that tasks are delegated appropriately and completed on schedule. I ensure that all equipment is maintained, functional, and ready for operation by coordinating regular inspections and repairs as needed. Safety is a top priority, and I enforce adherence to safety protocols to prevent accidents and hazards. This includes conducting safety meetings, overseeing proper use of equipment, and ensuring compliance with regulatory standards. I also handle the coordination of drilling operations with the operations manager, engineers, and other departments to ensure that drilling targets are met within the allocated time and budget. Additionally, I manage inventory control for tools and supplies, ensuring that the rig is stocked with necessary materials and resources. I troubleshoot any operational issues that arise, ensuring quick resolution to minimize downtime. My role also involves keeping accurate records, including drilling reports, equipment maintenance logs, and personnel performance.
