As a rig manager, I'm responsible for making sure everything on the rig runs smoothly, safely, and efficiently. My job is to oversee the entire operation, from managing the crew to ensuring our equipment is in top shape. Safety is a huge part of what I do—I enforce protocols, conduct inspections, and make sure everyone is following industry regulations to prevent accidents. I also handle logistics, making sure we have the right tools, materials, and resources to keep drilling on schedule. If something goes wrong, whether it's mechanical issues, weather delays, or personnel challenges, it's on me to find a solution quickly so we don't lose time or money. I work closely with drillers, engineers, and corporate teams, keeping them updated on our progress and any issues that come up. Training and mentoring the crew is another big part of my role, making sure they have the skills and knowledge to work safely and efficiently. Whether we're working onshore or offshore, the conditions can be tough, but problem-solving and quick decision-making are what keep things moving. At the end of the day, my job is to ensure we drill successfully while keeping my crew safe and the operation profitable.
