Slickline Supervisor, Operator, Trainer, and Gauges Man With over six years of experience in well intervention operations at SONATRACH Services Company, I have worked in multiple roles including Slickline Operator, Supervisor, Trainer, and Gauges Man. Throughout my career, I have developed strong technical and leadership skills in slickline operations, pressure control, and downhole data acquisition. As a Slickline Operator and Supervisor, I performed complete toolstring make-up, pre-job safety checks, and supervised the rig-up and rig-down of pressure control equipment (PCE) in line with company and HSE standards. I coordinated with well engineers and client representatives to execute slickline interventions safely and efficiently. My field work included setting and pulling plugs, locks, subsurface safety valves (SSSV), OTIS valves, gas lift valve change-outs, and well testing operations. I also redressed, prepared, and modified fishing tools according to well requirements and conditions. As a Gauges Man, I handled memory gauges, conducted pressure and temperature surveys, validated downhole data, and analyzed results using PPS software to ensure accurate reporting. In my current role as a Trainer, I deliver theoretical and hands-on training for junior operators, develop structured training materials, and promote operational safety, competency, and readiness across teams
