Additional Information

Roles and Responsibilities	Additional Skills/Certification
A Roustabout is an entry-level worker responsible for general support and labor, assisting other crew members and moving equipment. A Derrickman works on the drilling derrick, handling pipes and supporting the driller. The Driller operates drilling machinery, monitors operations, and ensures procedures are followed. The Toolpusher is a supervisory role, managing teams, schedules, and safety compliance. Engineers maintain critical equipment and systems, while Deckhands manage cargo, decks, and safety drills. Every offshore role is essential for safe and efficient operations. Each role comes with specific training requirements, certifications, and expertise. Understanding your role clearly ensures coordination with others, prevents accidents, and maintains operational continuity. In offshore work, roles are the foundation of structure and teamwork, helping the crew perform complex tasks in challenging environments. Without clearly defined roles, offshore operations would become chaotic, unsafe, and inefficient.	Some skill
