During my professional experience in industrial maintenance, I was responsible for ensuring the proper functioning and reliability of production machines and equipment. My main duties included performing preventive and corrective maintenance on mechanical systems, identifying technical faults, and carrying out troubleshooting procedures to minimize downtime and maintain operational efficiency. I regularly inspected equipment to detect early signs of wear, malfunction, or abnormal performance. I was also responsible for monitoring the performance of machines during operation, analyzing technical parameters, and reporting any irregularities that could affect productivity or safety. This required close attention to detail and a good understanding of mechanical systems and industrial processes. In addition, I assisted in technical operations related to machine setup, adjustment, and repair. I collaborated with technicians and operators to ensure that equipment was operating under optimal conditions and that any technical issues were resolved quickly and effectively. I also followed safety procedures and maintenance protocols to ensure a safe working environment. Through this experience, I developed strong problem-solving abilities, technical diagnostic skills, and the ability to work efficiently under pressure in an industrial environment. My background in Mechanical Engineering further supports my capacity to understand complex mechanical systems and contribute effectively to maintenance and operational teams.
