planning, designing, and executing oil and gas well drilling operations in a safe, efficient, and cost-effective manner, develop detailed well programs, including casing design, drilling fluids selection, and bit optimization, based on formation conditions and well objectives. During operations, closely monitor key parameters such as rate of penetration, mud properties, and pressure to ensure smooth drilling and to prevent issues like kicks, stuck pipe, or lost circulation, coordinate with rig crews, service companies, geologists, and reservoir engineers to achieve drilling targets accurately. Safety is a top priority, and ensure compliance with well control procedures and environmental regulations. In addition, they manage daily costs, reduce non-productive time, and prepare technical reports. A key responsibility also includes overseeing rig moves, which involve planning and coordinating rig mobilization, rig-up, rig-down, and demobilization activities. This requires efficient logistics management, proper sequencing of equipment, and ensuring minimal downtime between wells. Overall role in delivering wells successfully while balancing safety, performance, and cost.
